

ELECTIVE COURSES 3rd YEAR

The elective courses are designed to provide a deeper understanding of a given theme, complementary methodological tools or an opening onto a specific field of development or application of science. Students must choose one elective course module for each of the two semesters of the second year; one cross-curricular elective course module in the second semester of the second year (S8) and one course in the first semester of the third year from a wide range of proposals.